

MATERNITY GROUP HOMES PROGRAM

PROGRAM HISTORY

The Runaway and Homeless Youth Act, passed in 1974, authorized the Transitional Living Program (TLP), which enabled community-based organizations to operate short-term, emergency shelters to provide crisis care to runaway and homeless youth (RHY) not already receiving services from the child welfare or juvenile justice systems. Congress created the Transitional Living Program for Older Homeless Youth as amendments in 1988.

Today, the Family and Youth Services Bureau (FYSB) funds the Maternity Group Home Program as part of the Transitional Living Program, under the provisions of the Juvenile Justice Reform Act of 2018 (Public Law No: 115-385).

Maternity Group Homes promote long-term, economic independence and stability for pregnant and parenting youth who are contemplating running away or experiencing homelessness or housing instability.

The Maternity Group Home Program (MGH) supports community-based, adult-supervised, transitional living arrangements for pregnant or parenting young people between the ages of 16 and under 22, as well as their dependent children. Services are provided for up to 21 months or until a young person turns 18 years old if they enter a program at age 16. MGH grantees are required to provide young people resources to learn and practice effective parenting skills focusing on well-being and healthy child development, family budgeting, health and nutrition, and other skills.

SERVICES

Maternity Group Home grantees are required to offer the following services, either directly or by referral:

Extended Residential Shelter

- Maternity group homes
- Host family homes
- Supervised apartments

FYSB Mission

To support the organizations and communities that work every day to end youth homelessness and adolescent pregnancy.

FYSB Vision

A future in which all our nation's youth, individuals, and families — no matter what challenges they may face — can live healthy, productive, violence-free lives.

Basic Life Skills and Counseling Services

- Money management, budgeting, consumer education, use of credit
- Parenting skills
- Interpersonal skill-building
- Educational advancement
- Job attainment skills
- Individual or group counseling and parent and child counseling
- Referral to social and health care services,
- Leisure activities, aftercare, and, as appropriate, childcare, and child nutrition

Service Coordination Plan

- Referral to social services, law enforcement, educational services, vocational training, legal services, health care programs, and affordable childcare or child education programs.

Outreach Plan

- FYSB requires grantees to incorporate elements of Positive Youth Development (PYD) and Trauma-Informed Care (TIC), which suggest that the best way to prevent risk and trauma is to help young people achieve their full potential. Youth development strategies focus on leadership, trauma counseling, skill-building, and community involvement.

GRANT AWARD PROCESS

FYSB funds the Maternity Group Home Program under the provisions of the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-415), most recently reauthorized by the Juvenile Justice Reform Act of 2018 (Public Law No: 115-385).

FYSB solicits applications for the Maternity Group Homes Program by posting funding announcements on Grants.gov and on the FYSB Funding Opportunities page. Applications are competitively reviewed, and successful applicants receive three-year grants. In Fiscal Year 2022, FYSB awarded $15,394,297 to MGH grantee programs.
